What if the love of your life lived 200 years ago? Emma was born with a gift to see past lives, but has no interest in reliving her own. Until it comes back to haunt her.

When Emma meets Peter he seems like an average guy, albeit crushingly handsome, not to mention wealthy. Then he reveals he's so much more, he's the crowned Prince of Belgium, and Emma can't shake the feeling they've met before. And when starts falling for him she suddenly realizes they'll never be together in this life because of what happened in the past. Two-hundred years ago Fitz and Anna-Maria ruled Belgium as King and Queen, but their heart-stopping love story ended in one of the greatest royal tragedies history has ever known. Recalling the past is one thing, rewriting history is another. Is Emma skilled enough for the task? Battling unfinished business, navigating 19th century society, and evading enemies that are able to travel through time just to keep them apart makes Emma fear the worst, despite what her heart tells her.

Set in New York, Belgium, and 200 years ago, this trilogy is a sweeping paranormal time travel saga about a love that will live forever, often just out of grasp, and the forces that are trying to destroy it. THIS IS BOOK THREE IN THE SERIES, IT'S IMPORTANT TO READ THE FIRST TWO BEFORE MOVING ONTO THE FINAL SEGMENT.
