Society made them enemies... Circumstances made them allies...

Destiny made them lovers. In a future Earth torn apart by prejudice and religious strife, only the members of the outlawed Auric Rights League dare defy the Inter-Continental Police, fighting for survival against those who fear their genetic gift. Ruth ICP agent Val Tarrant and the League member he is pursuing, Raven Armistead, are betrayed by both sides, left for dead and framed for murder. Reluctant allies, they become fugitives in a world where they must make their own laws. If they are successful, they will create a new world order. If they fail, a civil war will be the least of their problems. Note: This book was previously released under the title Raven's Heart. It has been revised and expanded for release with Cerridwen Press.
