Lovecraft eZine is a magazine of Weird Fiction and Cosmic Horror, with over 200,000 readers. Issue #37 featured editor Aaron J. French writes: I recently proposed to Mike Davis the idea of featuring several new stories in the eZine based on the fabled lost continent of Atlantis and the weird fiction worlds of H.P. Lovecraft. He happily agreed, and so I am pleased to bring you six new stories I selected and edited focusing on this theme. There is new work from Donald Tyson, John Langan, Erik T. Johnson, Jodi Renee Lester, Darren Speegle, and Gio Clairval. I've always been fascinated by Atlantean mythology and personally I think it mixes quite well with HPL's Mythos. I hope you enjoy this special selection of stories and that you will check out the authors' other work if you happen to like them. Thanks for tuning in! (Publisher's note: Aaron's themed tales are the first six stories in the table of contents. In addition to those, we've included three additional stories by Kurt Fawver, K.G. Orphanides, and Mark Howard Jones.
