This is a small book with a BIG purpose. Life's Questions contains what remains of the poetic works of Sanjay A. Caines most of which were destroyed by hurricane. Full of inspiration for everyone and every occasion, this is a must have if you are a public speaker or a leader of any kind of institution. You will be inspired to find the answers to many questions of faith, destiny, love, success and more. Connecting you with your purpose in life and the good success promised by our creator is the reason these poems were compiled. You would never regret buying this book because there is no price on the bings you will receive.

The responsibility to connect others with these thought stimulating poems will become your passion. The book also highlights the author's birthplace as he encourages all to come to his homeland of St.

Kitts and Nevis both in pictures and in the featured poem. If you have not been to St. Kitts and Nevis before, you would be tempted to make it your next vacation and possible home.
