"This.. this is what's left of that beautiful girl that stole my blackened heart when I first laid eyes on her."
TATE: "She is the epitome of the word enemy. Don't let her good looks fool you. She is the daughter of the man that ruined us years ago. She is the heir to our fortune." "Do you want her dead? Is that what you're playing at?" I ask. "No. Not right away. I want whatever information she has first. Scare her.

Play your little games. Make her give us what we want first. Then kill her." FAWN: Have you ever been alone for so long that you start to doubt your own sanity? The things that run through your head haunt you? The darkness becomes a blanket that you want to wrap yourself in and never come out?
